INAUGURATION DAY.

Next Monday, Jan. 6, 1902, the new Administration will take the reins of government at City Hall. Nominally it is Democratic, but partisan politics generally cuts but small figure in the conduct of our public business and radical changes are not looked for in this respect.

this respect.

Mayor Feeney has had experience in the Executive Chair and is amply qualified to fill it with ability and credit to himself and the city. That such will be his earnest endeavor we have not the slightest doubt. An opportunity for improving the reputation and ma-terial interests of Woburn is presented to him, which there is no reason to to him, which there is no reason to believe will be neglected.

The creation of a good working City Council out of the new material ought to be possible, and if public expectation is realized, no question would seem to is realized, no question would seem to exist why the next City Government should not fill the bill as well as any of its predecessors. a meditative mood today The more I think of it, and the wider grows my mental range, the more firmly am I convinced that Winchester is am I convinced that whichester is soon to be the star and gem of Boston's suburbs. It is pushing ahead with long and rapid strides, and the additions to its population are of the most desir-able character. There are no better roads in this State than ours; our roads in this State than ours; our parks, boulevards and parkways are numerous and unsurpassed; and our people are progressive. With its hills and valleys, its ponds and streams; its hills and dales, the natural scenery is perfect, and every year adds to its artistic embellishments. Only 7 or 8 miles from the State House, with numerally steam trains and a platform. innumerable steam trains, and a plethora of electric lines, the business and social relations with Boston are close and cordial. Why, then, should not Winchester become the gem town of Boston's environs?

Col. Nat. Richardson gives the public a deal of valuable historical pabulum in his weekly "Observations"

Boston Theatres.

Boston Music Hall has scored a tre mendous hit with its new scheme of entertainment, and the public response to the idea has been instant and substantial. Bostonians and subtraintes alike have realized at once that here is something novel, which they have always wanted to witness and never before the full. Musical travesty, satire and vaudeville make a delightful combination, without breaking the custom of continuous performance instituted on Labor Day, 1909.

Smoking In Japan. The Japanese smoke in a very pe-culiar manner. The pipes have very small metal bowls, with bamboo small metal bowls, with bamboo stems and metal mouthpieces, and only hold enough tobacco for three or four whiffs. They use a tobacco which is cut extremely fine and looks more like a light blond hair than anything else. It is of a very good quality, however. The Japs take a whiff of smoke and inhale it. letting it pass out through the nostrils. They rarely smoke more than one pipeful at a time.

The Way an American Evened Up Matters in a French Hotel. Europe and America Clamors For It, but Higham Won't Sell.

To possess the celebrated "Higham furniture" is the ambition of the wealthy lovers of old furniture in Europe and the United States, but it is an ambition which probably never will be realized until the family of the present owners becomes extinct, for each heir entails the collection as far as he can, and no amount of money ever has tempted the Highams of Higham to think for a moment of parting with their valued possessions.

This furniture is a collection of perfect early English furniture and also of flawless "Chippendale" and "Sheraton" and is in the farmhouse of Mr. Higham of Higham, whose ancestors, a family of yeoman farmers, have cultivated the farm called The Hangings, near Higham, England, for centuries. Wealthy connoiseurs in this country and Europe have offered enormous amounts for the furniture, but the Highams will not sell a stick.

"Deafness is very much more general than is supposed," is the statement of a famous physician. "Many persons who think they have perfect hearing are living under a delusion. In most cases, however, the ordinary deafness of people is the result of accumulations of wax in the ear. Those who are troubled in this way should never attempt to remove the wax themselves. They should go to a physician. Ninetynine out of a hundred cases of chronic deafness are caused by catarrh of the nose and may be cured by treatment of that disease.

A chick a few hours out of the shell, an English zoologist tells us, has five distinct calls. Its cry when Thirteen Kept Him Back.

Some people carry their superstitions to ridiculous extremes. A fussy little man crowded into the elevator car on the ground floor of the Real Estate Trust building and hastily ran his eye over the other passengers. He was counting them, and he heaved a sign of satisfaction when he found that there were twelve. The elevator man was just about to close the door when another man, who seemed in a great hurry, crowded in.

The fussy little fellow who had been counting noses cried out: "Wait a minute! Let me off!" He squeezed his way out, and the car squeezed his way out, and the car know which is her own family started upward.

"He makes me tired," remarked chicks.

"He makes me tired," remarked the elevator man. "I've seen him to that more than once. He's afraid something will happen if there are thirteen passengers on at one time."

Parepa Rosa a Coquette.

Parepa Rosa was an accomplished coquette with her audience, and she understood the public thoroughly. Good natured, vivacious and warm hearted when before the footlights, she was also shrewd and methodical in her business transactions, a combination that is seldom seen in an artist, and this fact was of material advantage later in dealing with her manager. Almost invariably upon her first appearance in an opera she would furtively "size up" the audience, indicating, as a Cleveland paper once said, that "she was counting the house before beginning her performance."—Cosmopolitan.

But this tiny embodiment of the man his place set her teeth and only smiled at him—smiled just as amus-edly as he had smiled at her in the beginning of the little dispute which now had reached such alarming proportions.

Poor Philip stood and waited, holding out his empty arms, and she merely smiled. So he turned and went, but the new woman received a terrible shock the instant that the door closed behind him, for Miss Beatrice threw herself on a mountain of pillows and indulged in a deluge of good salt tears, just the kind Eve would have shed had fortunate Adam had to go through the probationary period of lovers' disputes before she became Mrs. Adam.

There was that tea that very afternoon where she was going to pour.

ernoon where she was going to pour.
It would never do in the world not to go, for the girls must never dream that she cared, but she choked again as she remembered that he had promised to drop in near the end with a few of the men. And she knew what that meant, for had he not "dropped" in every afternoon during the season, ostensibly to have her hand him a cup of tea? have her hand him a cup of tea? And hadn't he learned to bring enough of the other fellows with him to keep the rest of the girls busy, so that he and tiny Bee could have their little talk all alone? In fact, it was at the end of the big, bewildering reception at which her mother had introduced her at the beginning of the winter that he had first dared to tell her his love—there when the last few guests were linwhen the last few guests were linpering in the half and she had crept back to one of the farther tables, a little, flushed, weary maid in a quaint, snowy gown, a bud already beginning to tire of the fierce light beginning to tire of the fierce light beating on her dear, dazed head. She never afterward could remember just how it came about, but it began when his sleeve caught on some of the shining bits of silver among the ferns before her, and among the ferns before her, and—and—well, she was crying softly on his shoulder in less than a moment, both of them so oblivious of everything else that they didn't wake till mamma stood before them with a startled cry. Then they had to tell mamma, even before they had really talk each other year much but was a told each other very much, but papa liked Phil's father, so it had come out all right in the end. They had told everybody by this time, and the society columns had printed the date of their wedding, with a list of the bridesmaids, and she had ordered the beloved gown, with its frightfully long train and its stern air of severe matronly elegance. And now there wouldn't be any wedding after all, and the girls would give back the pretty pearl hearts she had presented to them as her attendants, and mamma would "You seem to forget that I may have something to say about whether or not you will kiss me; also you will kiss must wis women on as you will kiss wis possible to bear the parting. Do you know, Mr. Ewing, that when I am tired and heartsick there isn't anything in the world which rests me and makes me glad so much as my husband's kiss?"

The Cost of Trademarks. There was a time, a comparative-ly few years ago, when the question of protecting trademarks did not enter into the commercial value of the articles involved as it does now. This is due to the enormous in-crease in advertising health foods, cereals, patent medicines and novel-ties. The tariff of charges for reg-istering trademarks in the various countries seems in some instances to be based upon the idea that au-thorized labels and the like are a luxury. In Zululand, Peru, Uru-guay, Hongkong and Granada the tariff fixed by law for each trademark is $145 in gold, the highest on the entire list.

In this country trademarks are filed with the patent office, and the price for registering one is $55, which is the lowest rate charged anywhere. Canada charges only $60 for a general or a special trademark. There are some countries of Europe that demand $100 for registering a trademark, but in Great Britain, Germany, Austria, France and Spain the fee in each case is $75. This is the rate in the majority of the English colonies, including New South Wales and New Zealand, but in Cape Colony it is $115 and in South Africa $135. In Costa Rica also $135 is demanded.—American Wine

Each competitor is provided with a long pipe which has a colossal to thim, and he nursed it through a form a document, and it will be a matter of considerable surprise to many to learn that it is possible for a person to forge his or her own name. A person, however, who fraudulently inserts another's name on a picture, thereby selling it as the work of some other artist, it is not guilty of forgery, as a picture is not an "instrument in writing."

The crime of perjury also does not quite "fit in" with the generally accepted idea, which is that if a person, after being sworn on oath to speak the truth, swears falsely, he is guilty of such offense. This is correct with the important qualification that the fact the witness has sworn to must be material to the case. Thus, if a witness on being asked where he lived, this, though untrue, would not amount to perjury, as the place where the wit.

Animals and Food.

The strongest animals exist entirely on vegetable food. It is the ferocity of the lion rather than his strength that makes him formida-ble. An elephant is a match for several lions and is a vegetarian. The animals with most speed and endurance—the horse, the reindeer, the antelope and others—are also vegetarians.

The shortest history on record probably has been written by Senor Carlos Escribans, a Peruvian. It is only 100 words in length. Follow-

"The Asiatic origin of the primitive Peruvians admitted, their rudimentary civilization ended with the appearance of Manco Capac, founder of the inca empire. His thirteen successors, continuing his policy, constituted that vast theocratic and communistic monarchy which astonished the world. Conquered by Pizarro (1538), it became a Spanish colony, whose fourteen viceroys kept it in mediaeval darkness and whose heavy yoke provoked the independence proclaimed by San Martin (1821), cemented by Bolivar and Sucre at Junin and Ayacucho. The republic established, anarchy supervened, presidents rapidly succeeded, until the disastrous war with Chile, which, chastening minds, has preuccessors, continuing his policy, possessing the means to pay entered a restaurant, where he ordered and ate a good dinner. As, however, he was unable to pay for the same he was given in charge and subsequently indicted for "obtaining goods by false pretenses." The case resulted in the prisoner's acquittate on the ground that he had not been gullty of any false pretenses.

THE NEW CITY GOVERNMENT

The City Administration which came into power last Monday, started out well, and if the pace is preserved through the year 1902, business at City Hall will be done in a workmanlike manner.

Mayor Feeney unquestionably intends and has the ability to give Woburn a good government during his term by insisting that each and every Department shall conduct its affairs on business principles and for the benefit of the apople instead of the heads and business principles and for the benefit of the people instead of the heads and employees of the Departments. He will pay particular attention to the finances of the city and the expenditure of the public funds. It is in these particulars who have paid in advance for the that radical reforms are imperatively demanded, and on them Mayor Feeney will, no doubt, focus his financial abilities. It will be his duty to see to it that better results are obtained from the taxes collected than has recently been injuries.

Large sums of money have been spent during the last ten years in repairing that portion of Main street, yet during that time the street never has been in really good condition. The repairs did not last for any length of time. The space on each side of the track is so narrow that all of the track is confined to the same lines and thus deep ruts are formed necessitating frequent repairing on the street. There can be no question that the street should be widened; but a serious question for you to consider is whether the funds required to do the work should come out of the debt limit, so-called, or whether the Legislature should be asked for suthority to make a loan for this purpose outside the debt limit. The total cost of the proposed widening of Main street will probably exceed the present borrowing capacity of the City. It is therefore evident that no steps should be taken towards the proposed widening until after the provision is made for the payment thereof. exclusively in the Mayor. The responsibility for the proper enforcement of the law is placed on me. I pledge myself to the faithful performance of this as well as of all other duties imposed on me.

Having thus briefly directed your attention to the consideration of the more important affairs of our city and having by way of criticism conveyed to you my views upon the subjects mentioned, the purpose of this address is accomplished.

The trust imposed in us by the people, whose servants we are, by whose will we hold our respective office, and to whom alone we are held accountable, is not to be shirked or evaded, but is to be assumed and the daties thereof performed by us in a spirit duly appreciative of the responsibilities placed upon us.

In dealing with the various questions arising continually in the administration of our municipal affairs the greatest need of success can only be attained by careful contemplation of all aspects of each individual problem; by giving due respect and consideration to the opinions of our fellow-citizens and by being ever mindful that the chief object of all government is the welfare of the whole people.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

The vogue of musical travesty, satire and high class vaudeville, so arranged as to present continuous performance from noon until the appointed hour of theatre closing, has been established beyond peradventure at Boston Music Hail, and the attendance during the past the management in believing that this is just the sort of amusement which its patrons most desire and appreciate. Next week will mark the final performances of that sparkling musical melange, "Pousse Cafe," which will be superseded by another Weber-Fields success, "Hurly-Burly," with entirely new story, costumes, scenic effects, dances and music, etc. Also next week there will be an entirely new play-satire, the second one being called "The Wee Minister," and of course founded upon that immensely popular comedy by J. M. Barrie and played so successfully by Miss Maude Adams—"The Little Minister." BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

"Morleco Bound," the name of the brilliant musical comedy and great London success, suggests all those rare delights usually found between such covers. It was produced for the first time in America at the Park Theatre, Boston, on Thursday, January 9, under the management of Mr. A. H. Chamberlyn, who made the original production in London, Eng., where it enjoyed a marvelous run of two years, divided between the Shaftesbury and Duke of York Theatres, and is still playing to crowded houses in the English capitol. This production is the joint work of Arthur Branscomb, the writer of the book, whose former successes, "The American Well's members of Missian the University of Cambridge, Eng., who is classed by the English musical world as the equal of Sir Arthur Sullivan is the composer of the music. The lyrics of this successful musical production are in the happiest mood of Adrian Ross, whose international reputation is so firmly established by his other successes. The story while most fantastic, is strong and abounds in genine comedy situation and is well designed to show to best advantage the dainty musical novelties and bright sparking dialogue.

Tibetan Skull Drums.

A drum of an extreme repulsiveness of nature is one used by the lamas of Tibet at some of their church ceremonies. For this the craniums of two skulls, preferably children's, are taken, and over the skin of a snake. The two skulls are then cemented at their vertices to either side of a wooden disk covered with a cotton cloth, the stretched skins being outermost. These drums are often er namented by having the heads of devils and such like horrors, the more repulsive the better, painted upon them in red and blue colors. The method employed in playing them is rather curious. To the wooden disk between the two halves a cord is fastened, by which

The suddenness with which the Russian serfs were transformed in the freemen on March 3, 1861, is indicated by the story told of a Russian his talk was fast becoming unendurnobleman who happened to be traveling and, having forgotten the date, was awakened at midnight by his servants, who said they would lead to be traveline able when his companion saw a man on the street far ahead yawning openly.

It is not probable that the dulling and, having forgotten the date, was awakened at midnight by his servants, who said they would then take their leave of him, as they were free.

The gentleman found that he was left in the middle of a forest on a dark night. The servants considerately, before they left him, pointed to the direction in which his route lay. The coachman warned him to be careful of the horses, as they did not like being driven in the forest in the dark. Then, bidding adieu to his excellency, his late serfs disappeared in the forest.

It is interesting to recall that Lincoln was inaugurated president of the United States the day following the emancipation of the street far ahead yawning openly.

It is not probable that the dultard felt this needle prick of wit, but his companion's exasperation must have found momentary relief.

"Look!" he exclaimed. "We are overheard!"

People living in the great houses around used to send him tidbits from their own tables. Truth compels me to relate that Niles did not always receive these offerings with gratitude. If the dish was not this taste, he would reject it with contumely, and the mistress of the house advised by him to get a new cook. But Steena, our cook, belowed of us children, had found favor in Niles' eyes. Her offerings were never rejected by him; especially an eel soup and an eel pic of hers were welcome to his taste. How well remember the day on which he told us the following tale, the last, as it happened, we were ever to hear from Niles' lips.

"Is it as bad as that?" asked Mrs. Constance Wilson in dismay.
"Every bit as bad," responded Patty, with a brave attempt at cheerfulness.
"When it is all over, I will have perhaps $500 and the furniture."
"Dear me," thought Mrs. Wilson, "and every one thought Mr. Norris was such a fine business man." But she did "Is it as bad as that?" asked Mrs.

Mrs. Wilson affected a cheerful acquiescence which she did not feel.
"I'm going home now, my dear, and think this over. You'll hear from me tomorrow. And of course you'll succeed, whatever you undertake."

Mrs. Wilson had been Patty's governess in the days when such a thing as financial uncertainty seemed far removed from the Norris mansion. Now she was manuscript reader for a big publishing concern. When she reached her dimly lighted bedroom, third story, back, in a noisy boarding house, she drew forth a small bankbook and studied it carefully. As a result of long re-caught Patty frowning at her across a dinner table that was homelike and dainty.

"Connie, there's absolutely nothing left for me to do. The tins are hung straight in the kitchen, and I've tried the briez-bracy in every conceivable position. I'm not to be put off any longer. I want a job."

There was mirth in the tone, but it rang false. "Job" from the lips of Patricia Norris! Nevertheless that same evening they faced the situation together. Mrs. Wilson had seen this coming and was prepared.

"There is absolutely nothing open in our offices, as I had hoped, Patty, and the only schools where I would have influence are supplied with teachers that never marry or die." She surveyed the girl through a veil of unshed tears. "You've a regular Gibson figure, dear, and such lovely fluffy hair"—She broke off disconnectedly. Patty laughed. "Connie de stick to the text. Shall I "Connie. do stick to the text. Shall

"Only $12.50 a week, but you wouldn't have got that much, only that I told the head of the department what a-a beauty you were."
"Flatterer!" answered Patty, with a laugh that sounded more like a sob.
So did Patricia Norris make her entry into the business world. It was not hard work, and she never wearled of handling the beautiful wraps and frocks. Her statuesque beauty set them off to perfection, and the head of the department approved of her because she "never got gay" nor wasted the time of other employees by chatting with them, as her predecessor had done. In fact, she held herself aloof from the other girls in the shop. It was an odd, unreasoning pride that they could not understand. If the girls who thought her proud had known how she envied them, they might have felt differently. They worked with their hands, and she—just posed. It was not brain that earned her salary, but a mere bauble of physical perfection.

And she resented most of all the gules searching clanges of a young felt.

And she resented most of all the quiet, searching glances of a young fellow who seemed to be in the cashier's department. Once when she went to draw her salary he stood near the win-dow and handed forth the envelope

Dining Customs.

A student of social customs has called attention recently to the fact that man eats today practically the same viands he did in ancient times. However far back we push our researches, the foundations of all dishes are the same—the same birds, the same meats, the same fish—though perhaps the list of the ancients fish is somewhat more extensive. Modern man has forgotten the flavor of the porpoise or dogish, and in the north, at all events, has learned to shudder at the suggestion of a dish of octopus. The dining room door was locked, to the children's surprise. But Thaddeus crept secretly in at the window. Then his turn came to be surprised. He stood before the dainty table in absolute amazement. Wild notions of running away and spending the day somewhere in the woods where it was still and cool, of leaving the baby, the dinner, the ironing, behind her or, better still, of slipping on her best dress and taking the 10 o'clock train into the city, surged through her mind. She sat and entertained them excitedly. Yes, the city was better. She would do a little shopping—no, not on her birthday. Plants That Have Coughing Spells. Man, or even the animal king-dom, has no monopoly of coughing or even getting red in the face in an effort to throw off foreign sub-stances. Recently botanists have been giving special attention to this bean and tell interesting things about it. It is a native of warm and moist tropical countries and objects most emphatically to dust. It has an effective means of getting rid of objectionable matter. When dust settles on the breathing pores in the leaves of the plant and chokes them, a gas accumulates inside, and when it gains sufficient pressure there comes an explosion, with a sound comes an explosion, with a sound exactly like coughing, and the dust is blown from its lodgment. And more strange, the plant gets red in the face through the effort.

The Evolution of the Sword

As men in early times fought hand to hand, the oldest specimens of the sword are short. In fact, the sword is probably but an evolution of the club, which, at first made of hardwood, was gradually sharpened on one and then on both sides, so as to inflict a more deadly wound. Wood gave way to stone, which in

Now the splash of oars could not rouse her from her bitter reverie, but as they turned a corner a breath of the old fragrance brought a stab of the old fragrance brought a stab of pain to her heart. They floated close to a tiny garden set like an emerald between the dark buildings, and over its low wail hung a blooming spray. At sight of the roses came renewed longing for home. She would fight against it no longer. She went back to the hotel filled with peace.

A letter was waiting for her. As she opened it, leisurely, she wondered what had moved Leslie Prince to write to her. Leslie had been one of the belies of the home set, but she and Marian had never been particularly chummy.

"It ain't right," cried Paddy, "and I ain't a-goin' to stand it. Oh, Billy, if I had lots of money d'you know what I'd do? Well, I'd buy you and take you up to the surface and let you do nothin' but eat grass and run around the fields. Say, how long has it been, Billy, since you saw the sky? Guess it must be all of seven years."
Billy looked contemplative.
"Well, never mind; there's a good time comin' some day. And say, Billy, if I don't get even with Evan Jones-well, you can kick me for a duffer. It was a surface and would have plunged back down." Counsellor-at-Law and Notary, him. You—say, what's the matter, Billy?"

For Billy had shaken off the nose bag with a jerk, and with ears cocked, eyes staring and nostrils agape he was looking down the gangway.

"What is"—began Paddy, and then, sniffing the air, he cried, "Why, it's smoke, Billy."

The mule whinnied, and there was a note of terror in the long, low cry.

"Smoke," cried Paddy again, "and it ain't no powder smoke neither! Say, Billy, she's aftre."

"But Billy?" questioned Paddy. "He'll have to find his own way out We can't bother with him."

"Go ahead," said Paddy. "Me and Billy!" get out together."

"Pool!" cried Jones. "Come on!" he called as he ran.

"Paddy drew off his coat and, throwing it over the mule's head, tried to lead him out, but Billy would not move.

is in there. They don't know, Billy. They'll all be killed!"

Far up the gangway and at one side in a remote working the inside foreman and thirty men had gone in the early morning to block an old opening. Paddy knew what that meant. They were isolated, and the smoke would not reach them until the very last. By that time the surrounding chambers would be so full of it that escape would be impossible.

This flashed through Paddy's mind before he could bring Billy to a stop. Almost without thinking he had determined what to do. There were two things—he could in a moment or two reach a safe place or he could go back into the smoke and warn the men. He might be overcome before he could find them, and might find them only to die in their company, but he did not think of these things. With a pull he turned Billy around.

"You've got to help me. Billy!" he turned Billy around.

"You've got to help me, Billy!" he cried. "I can't reach them alone." Billy shivered and whinnied.

Clinging around the mule's neck, he choked and gasped for breath. It seem-On and after March 1, 1899.

Then they came with a rush. There was no need to ask questions. The workings were already filling with smoke, and the men dropped everything and ran. One by one they passed Paddy. As the last one passed the boy he shouted back:

A Translator's Story.

An interesting little story attaches to the volume of Swedish fairy tales which Mr. H. L. Braekstad has translated. Years ago a Swedish friend gave Mr. Braekstad a book, saying. "Here is something you will like." He turned over the pages with the remark. "It isn't Swedish, is it, for I know Swedish?" "Not Swedish." was the reply, "but Swedish dialect." "Ah," said Mr. Braekstad, "can I manage to read it?" He tried several times, not very successfully. But one day he began to read the dialect aloud, and then he understood it at once. It resembled the dialect aloud, and then he understood it at once. It resembled the dialect aloud, and then he understood it at once. It resembled the dialect of a part of his own country, Denmark, and had been taken down phonetically.—London Chronicle.

The first complete translation of the Bible into the English tongue was effected by John Wyelif about 1380. This was the Lollards' Bible, and a large number of manuscript copies must have been written and circulated for 170 copies are still in existence. There were also many transcripts of certain books as well as of the whole Bible. Wyelif could not go to the Bible. Wyelif could not go to the Bible. Wyelif could not go to the original texts, so he translated from the Vulgate, or accepted Latin version. It was not a perfect performance, but the reformer was prevented by death from revising it, as he doubtless intended to do.

The revision therefore, was under-

Gilder & Son had lost heavily in the collapse of a Belgium syndicate, but the invitations for the ball had done much to quiet suspicion. Perhaps no one besides Major Wright knew just how deeply the firm was involved. And now what did this note mean? Gilder had evidently contracted to deliver 500 shares of C. N. and R. when the flurry over this stock was on, and he had found on arriving at the exchange that a corner was being form. change that a corner was being form-ed. When he found that Bertram, his sonly son, had incurred during his senlor year at college an unconscionable amount of debt, instead of adopting the customary parental tacties, he promptly paid the bills and doubled the young fellow's allowance.

"Let the boy have his fun," he declared. "This is his last year in college. Why, I sowed a few oats myself at that age, and look at me now!"

But, when a few years later Bertram married Edith Byrne, a favorite on the light opera stage, family friends held their breath and waited for the deluge of fatherly wrath. Surely Major Wright, who traced his geneal-egy to the Mayflower, would never overlook this! But again did the major's proverbial contrariness assert itself. He received the bride with open arms.

Not so the social set in which the Wrights had always moved. Conservative in the extreme, with old fashioned suspiction of stage life and stage people still lurking in their minds, they declined politely but firmly to receive young Mrs. Wright, in spite of the fact that the major's wife, now gone to her long rest, had been their leader in her day, and the old Wright mansion a favorite rallying ground before Bertram was born. Their wishes were first in the household, and the major became her devoted slave, to the extent that the slightest lack of attention on the part of the husband was promptly resented and atoned for by some delicate little courtesy on the part of the father-inlaw.

And the men who met her agreed with Major Wright cordially and openly. The women, however, continued to raise their lorgnetes and their shoulders when she passed by and carefully refrained from leaving cards.

The major, for the time, was so happy that he did not notice the social ostracism to which the house of Wright was being subjected, and the younger members of the family were too thoughtful to bring the condition to his attention. When he finally woke up to a realization of the situation, he was quickly transformed into a mimic voicano—that is, internally, Outwardly he disdained to discuss the matter with

Instead of talking he wrote out a handsome check and sent Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Wright abroad for the summer. He felt sure some solution of the problem would present itself during their absence.

Lynch Law.

Lynch law in its usual meaning is said to be traceable to a Galway worthy. In 1493 one James FitzStephen Lynch, a mayor of that city, sentenced his own son to death for murder and, fearing a rescue, had the culprit brought home and hanged before his own door. The tradition may be found alluded to in Thackeray's "Irish Sketch Book." There are critics, however, essentially American, and they data it back to Charles Lynch, a Virginian

The Democratic City Committee held a meeting at the Central House last Monday evening to devise ways and means to strengthen their party broganization. Having all the other City Departments firmly in their grasp they concluded to make a raid on the School Board next fall and infuse some pelities into it. At present the Board is lamentably lacking in practical politics, a condition which the Democrats propose to remedy at an early day.

It turns out that there is more in the movement for a U. S. Postoffice building in this city than the JOURNAL and others at first thought. The Congressional Committee on Buildings and Lands have taken steps to inform themselves on the subject by asking for facts and figures relative to it. — The competitive examination for selves on the subject by asking for facts and figures relative to it, which looks as though Congressman Knox's bill providing for the erection of a building was to be seriously considered.

"Have you seen Morocco Bound yet at the Park Theatre in Boston?" This is the leading question among amusement lovers throughout New England, and it is safe to say this bright musical comedy is the most taiked of play throughout this part of the country at present. The audiences that nightly witness "Morocco Bound" enter into the spirit of the fun from the start, and the gallery gods make life merry in that portion of the house by whistling the catchy airs heard on the stage. Last Monday night the cast was strengthened by the addition of E. Lovatt Fraser as Lord Percy Pimpleton and Templer Saxes as Vivian.

COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY I. C. BYRNE

O'Neill's office was small. He did not need a larger one. Young lawyers seldom do. There are several good reasons why they don't, but that has nothing to do with this story. The office was also an inside one— that is, it looked out on a court, a great well-like space bounded by four walls—not blind, blank walls, but walls fairly bristling with staring, impudent windows.

fairly bristing with same, moved windows.

Behind those windows myriads of busy men and women worked at schemes by which they hoped to enrich themselves and, sometimes, incidentally to impoverish others; schemes as farreaching in their consequences as the stone which, thrown into a stream, sends a ripple to the farthest shore. shore.
Still, though these schemes may have been interesting to a thoughtful man making a study of the great tragi-comedy of life, neither the walls nor the windows were particularly so. Yet O'Neill passed a large part of his time gazing intently at the window opposite his own.

gazing intently at the window opposite his own.

Time and again when he had seated himself at his desk, determined to add a chapter to the book destined to bring him fame, and, what was of even more vital importance, to pay his most pressing bills, he found his glances wandering across the space which separated him from the desire of his eyes.

"I wish she'd move her desk," he muttered half angrily one day as he found himself as usual watching instead of working—watching the slender, modestly dressed girl who sat in the window working so busily that she her was a young man whose valuable time she was wasting. Or if she had, she had never revealed the fact. But

Nine months before the Twelfth had landed from the rusty red transport Southern Queen and had marched with a swinging step over the wet sand. The straggly line of palms skirting the beach swallowed them, and from that moment the decimation began.

For a time they idled in the hot sun at Qualmas, where they ate fruit, eichened, a few died and the rest residence in the skeleton and the skeleton and the swell store the skeleton and the skeleton and the store the skeleton and the ske

The tall man looked at the questioner and replied slowly:

"And maybe we'll go home!"
It seemed to stun the lot of them. One gasped and turned pale. Home! They had never given that a thought. Home? While the rebels were yet hiding in the bush and the war in progress? Then a fellow who never did anything of note before began to sing to a wonderful tune of his own:

"We're goin' home! We're goin' home!

"We're goin' home! We're goin' home!
Our ship is at the shore,
And you can pack your haversack,
Fur we won't come back no more, my boys,
We won't come back no more!" and the whole rank took up the burden of the chorus:

"Oh, we won't come back no more, my boys, We won't come back no more!" With a quickened step, born of the swinging meter of the song, the Twelfth marched to the town's little gate. The hot sun, the tropical smell the petty ills and the quinine were all forgotten in their curiosity to learn why a strange sentry paced forward and back before the place. Like so many statues they waited for the lieutenant to reappear from the com-mander's hut. He came out with a smile on his face

Pat Sherk's Pumpkin in Springfield.
Springfield, Feb 9, '02
EDITOR OF WOBURN JOURNAL:

Dear Sir—Being a former resident of Woburn I am interested in any body or any thing that comes from that little city.

It is my custom to wait in Allend Ca.'s store on Bay street, for the car when I go down town, and as I went in Saturday noon my eye fell on a larrel of pumpkins. On top was a large one bearing this signature, scratched on its side while growing and low stands out in a bold hand: "Pat Sherk, Woburn, Mass" the petitions. The views of Aldermen and citizens were conflicting, but a majority appeared to favor the enterprise.

The petitions were referred to the Committee on Railroads.

Then followed a hearing on the proposed erection of a Government building in Woburn. This gave rise to a general discussion in which several people participated, among them Postmaster Wyer and L. M. Harris.

The hearing closed and a committee of five, consisting of President Brady of the Council, and Ald. Brackett, Holland, McHagh, Carter, were chosen to secure information to answer the questions of the Congressional Committee.

A communication from the Board of Public Works asked for an appropriation of $500 for the destruction of the brown tail moth on public trees.—To Common Finance.

On motion it was unanimously voted that Mayor Feeney be requested to petition the Legislature for the extension of the Mystic Parkway to Woburn and along the westerly side of Horn Pond to Pleasant street.

Cardinal Gibbons in the January issue of Donahoe's Magazine extensions and solve the complete of the proposed to danger of starvation. A case of this kind has been related to me where only the accidential visit of a train hand saved a man from death. A railroad accident, whether by water of fire, is a very serious affair to passengers of this sort. You have doubtless read more than once, as I have, of tramps drowned like rats or burned or crushed to death while stealing rides in this fashion. Riding the trucks is done in various ways. A locomotive engineer of my acquaintance has shown me the precise spot from which he had taken out two men at one time. It was on the rear truck of the tender. They were resting face downward on the truck beam, with just eleven inches of vertical space for their bodies by actual measurement.—Independent. innernanci

"You can never tell what a jury will do in the way of awarding damages," said a lawyer. "Some years ago I happened to be present at a meeting between a man injured in the big railroad wreck on the Lake Shore, at Ashtabula, and representatives of the road. The man asked $25,000, and the railroad had offered $17,000. The man told his story, and it was a terrible one. It seems that he was caught in the wreck and held by one foot, which was pinioned down. The wreck caught fire, and the flames crept toward him. Firemen and others around saturated his clothing with water and placed wet blankets over him, but he was not released until his foot was burned off. It was a grewsome story.

"One of the directors of the road was present. He took the claim agent aside and said: 'Give that man $25,000. If he tells his story in court, he will get damages enough to put the road into the hands of a receiver.' He got the money."—New York Tribune.

The error passed unnoticed at the time, but shortly afterward it dawned upon the father of the bride that a mistake had occurred, and he said to the minister:

They Still Name the Cook.

A queer custom, which prevails at no other court than that of Great Britain is the announcement at the beginning of each course at a dinner of the name of the cook who has prepared the dishe a great favorite of ones served. The origin of this custom date back to the reign of King George IL. who made a great favorite of one in the world she had lowed him responsible for the failures which were ball upon the king's table. Greatly incensed therefor him the name of the cook responsible for its success or failing to be the her girlhood friend in the little in land town where they were both born and bred. Again she was twenty-four and he was twenty-six by an all night and never even get a glimpse of fame.—Chicago News.

STREET RAILWAY HEARING Last Wednesday evening the Com-Council gave a hearing on the petition of the Lowell & Boston Street Rail-Company was represented by Mr. Cummings of Boston, who modified his original petition by offering these propositions, to wit: to build a spur from Burlington street to John Cumfrom Burlington street to John Burlington street to Burlington street to John Burlington street to Burlington street to Burlington street from Burlington street to John Cummings's store, as first proposed: to build the loop which some of the Council and citizens thought preferable to the spur; to build to Cambridge street with a view of continuing the line to Bedferd Springs. He said his Company would accept, construct and operate which ever of the three routes the Council might decide on, and make a substantial deposit with the City Treasurer as the Council might decide on, and make a substantial deposits with the City Treasurer as might decide on, and make a substantial deposit with the City Treasurer as a pledge for the faithful execution of the contract.

It seems to us that no fairer proposition could be made, and that Mr. Cummings submitted it in good faith its offer of a liberal deposit goes to show. It meets the demands of the City Council in every particular; is as advantageous to the city as could real expenses.

in home life, is to keep the house in such a healthy, sanitary condition that disease germs will be unable to find a lodgement there and attack the health of its members. This may easily be attained by using some article adapted to the daily cleaning of those places where germ life is most readily developed, and which in the act of cleaning exercises a positive germicidal action. The fact that such an article exists in Cabot's SULPHO NAPTHOL constitutes the great and most important advancement in house-cleaning.

"Archon will kill him!" she cried, clutching the elephant man's arm, dutching the elephant man's arm. "See, he is working in at his throat! Oh, can't they get firebrands?"

What Berthels did then was partly from the natural fighting courage of the man who trains wild beasts. He swung his heavy club up and as Brindle in a final effort for life fore half loose from his loose from his man, A lion's nose is his sensitive point. Half stunned, the girn relaxed his grip, and Brindle tore away. of gathered with an end of the girl.

"At him, Brindle" cried the girl, catching at Archon with her slender hands, and the faithful lion responded with another attack.

But now the fighting madness was at its height in Archon's brain. One paw broke Berthels' arm, the foaming jaws were at his throat, when there came the crackle of pistols, and the fierce face rose, bespattered with blood, turned hither and thirther and closed its cyes. They dragged Berthels out of the cage then and there, but not so the girl. Over her Brindle, torn and mangled, mounted guard until she came to from her faint and drew herself to her feet with her hands buried in his mane.

Berthels insisted that he and the fellne empress ought to be married on feline empress ought to be married on feline empress ought to be married on the man was down.

Text of the Lesson, Acts vi. 1-15. Memory Verses 7, 8-Golden Text, Matt. x, 28-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1992, by American Press Association.)

1, 2. "It is not reason that we should leave the word of God and serve tables." This was the decision of the twel when there began to be some murmuring among the disciples concerning the daily ministration of things temporal. As the number of the disciples multiplied it could hardly be expected that in these newborn habes there would not be manifest some phases of the old nature, some of the works of the flesh, such as wrath, strife, surgings and such like (Gal. v. 20). Even reter, James and John might remember quite a number of things in their own lives, even after they had been a year or two with Christ, which were of the flesh and not of the spirit; so it is to be hoped that while they determined that they could not take time to see to these seemingly unspiritual affairs they were patient with the murmurers.

3, 4. "We will give ourselves continucould not take time to see to these seemingly unspiritual affairs they were patient with the murmurers.

3, 4. "We will give ourselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the word." They would not serve tables, but they would pray and search and teach the word. They recognized the importance and the difficulty of atteiling to the daily ministration, for they saw the necessity of a committee of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom.

5, 6. "They chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and Philip." The other five are not mentioned again after this verse, which is not necessarily anything against them. Philip is mentioned sixteen times and Stephen, who became the first martyr for Christ, is mentioned seven times. If the mind of the majority is a correct guide then are armed with bows and arrows, and in a painting of the "Murder of the Innocents" the massacre is represented as taking place in a city of Holland. The parents of the children are stout burghers, the Roman soldiers are Dutch policemen armed with muskets, and the innocent infants are transformed into solid schoolboys in bulgy trousers and jackets and hobmailed shoes. The effect is droll.

Traits of Three Cities.

A Chicagoan may frankly tell you that you are losing valuable time if you live elsewhere than in his city. His mental attitude is the result of too much Chicago. A New Yorker public light proclaims it that when you get as few miles outside of New York of the mound, one by one, and you are losing out. That is the result of too much Chicago. A New Yorker public light proclaims it that when you get as few miles outside of New York city on really cease to live and are simply camping out. That is the result of too much New York. A Bostonian says nothing, and you are powerless to dispute a word of it. You have a feeling that he is not saying whole volumes to you, and you are powerless to dispute a word of it. You have a feeling that he is not saying whole volumes to you, and you are powerless to dispute a word of it. Now, it is a habit of cooks at sea to carry fishhooks in their pockets, and on this trip, by a curious coincidence, part of a small hook got caught in a piece of beefsteak that was served to this particular passenger. As soon as his knife encountered the hard object he started, picked it out carefully and laid it beside his other find on the cloth.

Then he beckoned to the waiter and confidentially whispered in his ear. "I don't want to be impertinent," he said, "but would you mind telling me where you shoot your oysters and why you catch your steaks with a hook and line?"—New York Post.

Famous Abductions.

Marriage by abduction was by no means uncommon in the early ages. The daughter of the king of Argus was abducted by a Phoenician. The Greeks carried off Europa from Tyre and Medea from Colchis.

Tortoise Shell.

What is known as "tortoise shell" consists of the thin outer scales which overlie the shell of a species of sea turtle. The shelling process consists in spreading dried leaves or grass evenly over the back and then setting them on fire. The heat causes the shell to separate at the joints, but does not injure it. A large blade is then inserted horizontally between the laminac, which are gently pried from the back. Many turtles do not survive the process, but most of them live and get a new covering, just as a man will grow a finger nail in place of one he may lose.

An Oddity of Lost Caste.

It is not necessary to go to India to hear curious stories of caste. In a professional man's household recently a maidservant fell ill of diphtheria. Her mistress nursed her herself through a tedious illness until she was quite well. When that happy result was established, the maid immediately informed the mistress that she intended to leave her service. The reason of the maid's departure was this—"I could not live with a mistress who has been waiting on me herself." Quite evidently this is not mere indifference to kindness or in-

Thus we come to do to call attention to his own both marriage and death, just as the hangs like a full estimate of the acute sensitiveness with which fish are endowed. I devote this article to hearing. By hearing I must obviously be understood to mean their power of appreciating the vibration caused by sound, the conductor being either solid, aerial or liquid.

In man sound detonates the eardrum, In man sound detonates the eardrum, and in that way when we are under water we discover little intelligible meaning from sounds. But the same vibrations are undoubtedly received by the exquisitely sensitive hearing intelligence of a fish, if I may use the term, in a different and far more impressive way. By intelligence I mean an instinctive recognition by their bodies of some disturbance, just as man recognizes a passing breath of air. It takes the form of feeling.

I came to the conclusion that I came to the conclusion that I uld make a few experiments. Here are one or two facts: A friend entered into it with me, and we bethought our selves of certain well known trout in our preserve which were "always there." Then we placed thatched hurdles a day or two beforehand so that the fish might get accustomed to them in such a way that we could approach close to their haunts without being seen and watch the unsuspecting trout through a small hole cut in the straw. When one was not at home, the other generally was. My friend undertook the noise making, I the observation.

From the sound of a gunshot 500 yards away, which made our trout distinctly start, to the breaking of a twig three yards from the fish, which did the same, we tried all kinds of sounds, shrill and dull and at varying distances, and the sum of our experiments convinced us of this. That our sensitively organized friends felt the displacements of molecules through ether.

HE WAS EXCUSED.

DR. LEWIS,

"What's up?" I very much doubt if I ever crept up to my peephole without being detected, and yet I was careful, for, if you notice, a trout once on the qui vive gives no sign of alarm at a second movement or noise. Once prepared he is immovable till he suddenly darts off. You may throw your great-cont at him, and he elther braves it stolidly or bolts cleans away. Five minutes' perfect stillness and they settle back to confidence, and then they were again ensily startled. I fancy the laws of refraction had something to do with it and that even from the sky they some times perceived my movements. I had not the conclusion: I believe they heard much they appeared not to. A sudden smack of the hands together, and there was a decided quiver, but a bird rattle, begun very softly and gradually brought up to its very loudest, and no notice seemed to be taken. But doubtless, like ourselves, however loud the noise, the gradient robs it of its straie. However fanciful it may sound, of this I am thoroughly convinced—that water is such an immediate transmitter of vibration to fish that they immediately recovered. Thus it will be seen that the skins of the skins, which was done, with the result that they immediately recovered. Thus it will be seen that the skin of organs insects owe the power of protecting themselves against danger as the human body. It is no argu-ment to say we do not when in it. We have no need. Fish have. And be-cause they have they are providentially endowed with supersensitiveness to that particular nervous influence among others.—London Field.

LEGISLATIVE HEARING

The two dozen caucus reform measures before the Legislature will be heard by the Committee on Election Laws next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, March 4, 5 and 6, in the largest committee room at the State House, No. 240, beginning at 10.30 down the direct nomination measures for Tuesday, the party enrollment measures for Wednesday, and the primary election bills for Thursday, but the whole subject is likely to be canthe whole subject is likely to be canvassed without strict regard to assignment. It is expected that these will be the most important committee hearings of the session, and whoever takes an interest in things political should attend one or all of them, whether for the purpose of helping to enlighten the Committee as to public sentiment, or of getting enlightened. Everybody says something must be done. These hearings are held to give the public the chance to tell what it should be.

which there are no grounds for disbe-lief; and if their main object in dealing Building on Huntington avenue, April with the Street Railway Companies is to promote the best interests of the city, which is taken for granted; and if the Lowell & Boston Company renew the petitions withdrawn by them last Monday night; then their application and that of the Boston & Northern Company should be considered together.

Much better terms and more valuable concessions can thus be obtained of the winning Company than could possibly be the case with only one petitioner in the field. On his first application for a Cummingsville franchise Mr. Cummings could not, he said, by any possibility accept the Loop proposition nor put up a forfeit. But as soon as the Boston & Northern entered the contest he was willing and anxious to do both. This case illustrates to a charm the contention stated above, that two strings to a bow are better than one. No doubt the Council will adopt this line of treatment of the cases in hand. Points About a Good Horse.
There are some points which are valuable in horses of every description. The head should be proportionately large and well set on. The lower jaw-bones should be sufficiently far apart to enable the head to form an angle with the neck, which gives it free motion and a graceful carriage and prevents it bearing too heavily on the hand. The eye should be large, a little prominent and the eyelid fine and thin. The ear should be small and erect and quick in motion. The lop ear indicates dullness and subbornness. When too far back, there is a disposition to mischief.

A Curious Boat.

According to a Chinese legend, there lived in Canton 200 years before Christ an artist named Lim Kao Poung, who won an immortal reputation owing to the fact that he was able to fashion out of a bean pod a boat, complete with rudder, sails, mast and all other necessary appurtenances. Moreover, on the exterior of the boat were engraved various maxims by Confucius. For this masterpiece, it is said, the Emperor Tsi Fou paid him 1,000 tasis.

From a Scotchman's Sermon.

We are told to love our enemies, but we are not told to like them. I don't like my enemies. I dislike them very much. But (this with a baleful glance) I love them, and I shall ever be ready to show my love to them by trying to get them severely punished that they my be led to repent of their behavior toward me.—Reminiscences.

Sincere Praise is Good Form.

It is not considered bad form to praise a dish or to compliment the arisite table arrangement, remembering always that there is a vast difference between sincere admiration and flatter that cambrases instead of pleases a hostess. — Woman's Home Companion.

His Talk,

"What will I talk about?" remarked a man who had been called on unexpectedly at a banquet and mentally groped for something to say.

"Talk about a minute" was the rejoinder that came from a nimble with the chap at the other side of the dining room.—Boston Journal.

"Batting an Orange.

When oranges are cut across and eaten with a spoon somewhat of their naturalness seems gone. It is an artificial way of eating this fruit, but often proves the most convenient. The way in which the julce flies is one of the drawbacks to this method. By taking a kinfe and cutting a little circle around the core in the center this tendered a man who had been called on unexpectedly at a banquet and mentally groped for something to say.

In the crowd that filled a Mulberry street auction room were two Italians who watched the sale with interest and enjoyed the badinage for which the auctioneer is noted. One of the Italians bid on some household article, and it was instantly accepted.

"What's the name?" asked the auctioneer as he opened the saletbook.
"Pietro Dionozella," answered the buyer.

the elucidator of the mysteries of the chemistry was then Professor Job cook, a very sedate man and never intentionally guilty of a joke.

One day in a recitation he said to a student, "Mr. Elack, how do you slack lime?"

The student, supposing the pun upon his name to be intentional, answered quick as a flash, "Cook it, sir."

Of course the class roared, but instead of enjoying the apt repartee the professor took it as a personal affront and reported Mr. Slack for a reprimand.

Practical minded men who have been are they sold cheaper.

The annual concert and ball of the Buffers Protective Union will be station is not needed and that to establish it would be a waste of money. Woburn is amply supplied with stations and has, in proportion to population, more than any other city in this part of the State. For example: Lynn, with 70,000 inhabitants, has 7; Maiden, 40,000, 4; Lowell, over 109,000, 11, averaging one to 10,000 people; while Woburn, with 14,000 population, has 6, and if another is added, as proposed, 7, or one to every 2,000 people. A moment's consideration of these comparative figures demonstrates the absolute of the proposed of the state of the proposed of bosed, 7, or one to every 2,000 people.

A moment's consideration of these comparative figures demonstrates the absurdity of establishing another station. Winehester reduced its 5 companies to 2, supplied each of them with two horses, a permanent driver and 1400 feet of hose, and time and experience have fully demonstrated the wisdom of the change. The true policy for Woburn to pursue is not to build more stations, but to put the present ones into dords. burn to pursue is not to build more stations, but to put the present ones into habitable condition; then employ a permanent driver and furnish 1200 feet of hose for each, and possibly a rearman to take care of the hose, and the problem of efficient service is solved. No. 6 house is a disgrace to the city. A new one is an absolute necessity. Others are in partial ruins. And besides this a 7th station is entirely unnecessary, and taxpayers will not willingly see their money squandered on it. necessary, and taxpayers will not willingly see their money squandered on it. If the City Council are sincere in their professed desire to promote the interests of their constituents, they will promptly and emphatically turn a cold shoulder to the scheme for another hose station.

The show was a prime one of course, for Towanda is famous in that line of amusements Some thought it was better than last years, and others held to a contrary opinion. The fact is, a Minstrel Show does not admit of a great variety of one over another. No friction was observed in any quarter, and nothing occurred to hinder the smooth running of the parts. The chorus was excellent, most of the voices being especially fent, most of the voices being especially fine. A good chorus is really the best part of a Minstrel Show, the socalled jokes, gags, etc., being, generally speaking, vain attempts at wit, but a source of merriment, nevertheless Source of merriment, nevertheless. The endmen were bright and breezy, and some of their jokes were quite fresh and funny. The dancing and song singing were good, although one soloist appeared to be out of tune, or something of the kind. The people seemed to be satisfied with the Show, as they had reason to be, and manifested their approbation and pleasure by fre-quent and hearty applause. Towanda Club had also reason to be satisfied, for a generous public accorded them a handsome patronage, and warmly con-gratulated the Minstrels on the grand

TORS IN CHILD REARING.

TORS OF THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTORS O

the food into blood, flesh, muscles, etc.; consequently the sensation which we call hunger persists long after the child or grown person has rapidly absorbed as much food as it really needs.

A million foolish parents urge their children to eat a great deal and always let them eat as much as they want to. If yet all of these know that a famished man taken off a wreck will eat himself to death if allowed to do so. The very hungry child goes to the same excess, only in a lesser degree. The great safeguard against that excess in eating, which kills 90 per cent of men before their time and which accounts for 90 per cent of children's diseases, is slow eating.

Danger in Cigar Cutters.

90 per cent of children's diseases, is slow eating.

Nearly all children eat too rapidly. They do so by nature. Slow eating is a matter of education. But too often the mother or the nurse teaches the child the habit of eating fast. When the baby is little, it is fed one spoonful at a time. Before it has time to half chew or even gulp down the first teaspoonful of food another is held to its lips. Of course it swallows what it has in its mouth and seizes upon the next mouthful. The habit thus inculcated by foolish adults often ruins the child permanently.

The large man had just bought a so-porific black cigar and was inserting it in the cutter. "Don't do that!" exclaimed the tall man of cadaverous feature. "Good gracious, why not?" demanded the large fellow. "You wait here with me for five minutes, and you'll see why not."

A man came up and bought a cigar. He wetted the mouth end slightly, put it in the cutter, lighted it and walked off. "Did you see that?" asked the ca-

Reasons Why Food Should Not Be Tumbled Rapidly Into the Little Stomach—Advice Which Applies to Grown Folks as Well as Babes. In the proper bringing up of a child there is nothing absolutely more important than this one thing—to teach it to eat slowly.

Tens of thousands of children in homes where this newspaper is read are ruined in health by studying right after meals. The public school system which gives children too short a region before the middle of the day is responsible partly for this, and the middle of the day is responsible partly for this, and the second state of the state

A weak solution of poultry droppings is a wonderful stimulant of plant growth. It may be used weekly with good effect.

Only well rotted manure should be applied around the grapevines. Fresh manure excites the growth, but does not mature it.

Quince trees should be mulched as a protection against extreme heat and cold, as the roots are small and usually near the surface.

In selecting trees to grow as a wind break it is quite an item to have them of a close growing habit and of as nearly perpetual foliage as possible. Plant a double row.

But is very difficult to determine whence all the gems came, as discoverers took care to leave no record. The nations who traded in them were afraid of their whereabouts being known, and even the most ancient merchants would not disclose any definite locale. All sorts of myths have accordingly spring up concerning the origin of gens. "Diamond" was the an intent to have them of a close growing habit and of as nearly perpetual foliage as possible. April day looked very much like the same Frank Ryals who had stood there eight mouths before except for a certain air of composure and two little patches of gray hair on his temples that contrasted oddly with his fresh face. He received Bess and her friends cordially and told the latter he had made all arrangements to have them at his home during their short stay in New York.

Everybody talked at once at dinner, there was so much to say and the joy of being once more on American soil was so keen. The company rose, protesting vigorously when their host bade them good evening as he prepared to leave the house.

"We refuse to stay and turn you out of honse and home this way. It is atrocious," they said.
"It is my pleasure," was the grave answer, "and you must stay."

Letters came across the ocean to Frank Ryals, full of life and vivacity, now briming over with the joy of some bright experience, now breathing awe and wonder of the grandeur of some old cathedral or mystery of nature, but never once did she say "Imiss you, dear," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wish I were back at home were back at home were scarce and finally ceased altogether. THEIR LAST MEETING

Dr. Greene's Nervura Makes Men Healthy, Strong, Vigorous, Powerful.

WHY MEN GROW WEAK.

Tis indeed the pace which kills. It is not work which injures, it is overwork, worry, confinement, over-taxing the strength, strain upon nerve and body, dissipation or spring debility, which breaks down the health, weakens the nerves, exhausts the body. You become weak, nervous, restless, or fretful; have dizineas, bad-feeling head and unsteady and trembling nerves, strange sensations, a feeling of anxiety, gloom, and discouragement; you are sleepless, and wake tired and unrefreshed; appetite and digestion fail, and you have kidney and liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism—and finally nervous prostration, heart failure, paralysis, insanity—death.

Now, what is the remedy?

Obviously something which will rebuild the shattered nerves, restore tone and vitality to the blood, brain, and nerves, and strengthen and invigorate all the organs of the body. There is nothing else known which will so completely and perfectly do this as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, that grandest of medicines, which is restoring the health of the people, recognized at the present day as the master remedy of the world.

"What is your scheme? My time is limited."
"First of all, you shall build for me a mammoth windmill on the banks of the Missouri. The censeless winds that come crying across Colorado and Kansas will push the paddles in the big wheel, which, revolving, will drive a great pump that will force air through a small pipe to be laid along the line under the ties. Beneath each water tank upon the mountain side we shall build an air tank, so that while the fireman takes awater the brakeman can take air, filling the air drum with good valley air, and then there will be no trouble. It is because the mountain air is too light to hold that the trains get away on the hills. Knowing this, the blood of innocent men, women and children will be upon your head if you fail to protect the lives of your patrons."

The general manager put his ear down again, but the troubled heart was hushed.

The plercing and cutting teeth of some of the cats of long ago are the most perfectly adapted instruments for cutting purposes that ever were seen, being unequaled by any manufactured tools for such uses.

For example, there was the "gomphodus," which was as big as the largest panther and had two teeth in its upper faw resembling daggers, each five inches in length. As weapons for penetrating flesh they are unrivaled among carnivorous animals, recent or penetrating flesh they are unrivaled among carnivorous animals, recent or extinct. DIAMOND BACK TERRAPIN.

Baltimore, Philadelphia and New

Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York enjoy a monopoly. These three cities get practically the entire output, but few ever find their way across the Blue Ridge. The epicure unfortunate enough to be born in Chicago or St. Louis must either come east or forego the joys of terrapin.

To select a real diamond back amateurs should be guided by these distinguishing and characteristic markings:

It is of a greenish, dark olive color, sometimes running to spotted gray, yellow on the plate which surrounds the shell and has concentric dark stripes along the plate on both shells. The sides of the head are a dirty white, sprinkled with small black spots. The bottom shell is of whitish yellow.

The males are much larger than the females and have the concentric streaks much better defined. The female has the more delicate feish. The male can be distinguished by his toe nails, which are much longer than those of the feast are much longer than those of the feast are much longer than those of the feast are much longer than these for the night when he heard a knock at his door. He called 'Come in," and a negro presented himself and said rather slammfacedly.

'Father, thee is a girl outside. May I bring her in?"

Assent having been given, he disappeared for a moment and returned with a white woman and informed the scandalized priest that they wished to be married.

He was shown the door with promptness, and the girl was severely admonisted in the course she was pursuing. Fifteen minutes later there was another knock, and on opening the door the priest found himself again face to face with the would be colored bridegrom.

REVISING A PROVERB.

Wisdom aspires to age, while the shallow dread its finger marks, half conscious that their weak minds would sink into senility beneath the burden of years. Peans of praise are paid to youth in forgetfulness of the fact that only the aged can contrast the varying phases of consciousness during the different decades of a century of life. choicest dish. Instead he is merely eating fresh water turtles, "sliders" or "North Carolina goldens."

The reason is simple. Restaurate us don't serve real diamond backs because they can't get them. The world's total terrapin population does not exceed 25,000 of legal size, and these are confined to the shores of the Chesaure, really retains his youth.

THE STREET RAILROAD WAR.

If the present attitude of the City Council towards the two street Railroad Companies now contending for Cummingsville and Arlington Road franchises is correctly reported it will not require an extraordinary amount of brains to see that neither of those lines will be built. The report is that the Lowell & Boston petitioners will be given leave to withdraw at the meeting of the Council on March 24. If so, the belief is general that the Boston & Northern will follow suit voluntarially. Not at once perhaps, but ultimately, and thus the interests of the people will be seriously affected by the loss of another electric road to Boston.

The feeling of the JOURNAL towards the Companies is one of strict neutrality like that of the woman who witnessed the fight between her husband and a bear. It is looking after the welfare of the City and not the Companies.

the fight between her husband and bear. It is looking after the welfare of the City and not the Companies.

It cannot be denied that another road to Boston would be an excellent thing for Woburn. The inhabitants want it.

The Boston & Northern conceded the point when they filed their petition for the Myrtle street franchise. If their proposition is made in good faith, and they will deposit with the City Treasurer ample cash pleges to build the road, notwithstanding the seeming impractibility of the route from Main st., to Arlington Road, then one objection, at least, to granting them the right of at least, to granting them the right of way would be removed. It is unques-tionably true that public interests would be better served by running the line from North Warren street directly through Arlington Road; it is also true that a competing route to Boston would contribute to the prosperity of the City; but a road as proposed by the Boston & Northern petitioners even would be vastly better than none; and it is for the City Council to determine what shall be done.

We, however, still adhere to the opinion, that the action of the Council

"Commence" or "Begin," Which is Better?

Commence or Begin? The best writers, and the best speakers also, prefer "begin" to "commence" for all every-day purposes. The reason for this preference is not, as some have said, that "begin" is older, for "commence" is of very respectable antiquity; nor is it, as others have said, that "begin" is of Anglo-Saxon origin, for words of French or of Latin our language are just as good English as native words: it is rather that "begin" has the strength of simplicity, whereas "commence" has failen into disrepute from being associated with the cheap finery of writing.—Bitzabeth A. Withey, in the January Ladies' Home Journal.

Stopping a Fast Train

Stopping a Fast Train.

People often wax impatient because express trains cannot be stopped at a which they wish to alight. They should consider the cost of satisfying their whim. A train going at a rate of sixty miles an hour can be stopped within 120 yards from the first application of the brake. Now, enough power is lost to carry this same train fifteen miles over a plane surface. First there is the momentum acquired by the train flying at this remarkable rate of speed, then the loss of steam in applying the brakes and lastly the extra amount of coal to compensate for all these losses.

Middlesex County C. E. Convention.

Eudenvorers throughout Middlesex
County will be interested to learn that arrangements are nearly completed for the County Convention to be held at Medford, Saturday, April 19.

Two churches have been secured for the Convention. The afternoon session, beginning at 2 o'clock, will be held in the Mystic Congregational church, whilst the evening meetings, with two separate programs, will be held in the Mystic Congregational and the Methodist Episcopal churches. Supper, for which a fee of ten cents will be charged, will be served in Union Hall. Both churches and the supper hall are located on Saleu street.

The subject of the Convention is Personal Responsibility. Among the hespeakers will be Rev. F. A. Noble, D. D. of Chicago and Rev. A. C. Dixon, D.D. of Boston.

The London Mail's correspondent at Pretoria, who has hitherto been inclined to take an optimistic view of the situation in South Africa, now telegraphs that he sees no reason why the warmay not be bowling along as merrity as ever at this time next year, or even two years from now.

At the beginning Chadwick had won, and with a triumphant gesture he would haul in his little pile of gold. The liquor had brought a sparkle to his eye and daring to his tongue, for he kept Mrs. Marchand close to his side, declaring her to be his uascot and casting such languishing lances into her perfect blue eyes that wondered at Captain Marchand's calmness. When Chadwick won, she clapped her hands in girlish glee, and once or twice I caught a cynical smile on Marchand's lips. Clearly her presence was going to Chadwick's head. He played recklessly.

11, 12. "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness." This week's study in this epistle and the next on the resurrection need not necessarily break the continuity of our study of the acts of the apostles, for in all the Scriptures we have the things concerning Him of whom Philip spake to the enunch and whom we must see as the center of every lesson. In this epistle we are, so one has said, taken into the presence chamber of the King and made acquainted with His secret counsels and purposes concerning us. Only as we by faith enter into His love and purposes concerning us, only as we by faith enter into His love and purposes will we be delivered from the works of darkness mentioned in chapter iv, 31; I Cor. vi, 9, 10; Gal. v, 19-21. Intemperance, as generally understood, is one of the many works of darkness, but the child of God should be free from all if he would know the joy of being a child of the Lord Almighty (II Cor. vi, 14-18).

13, 14, "Awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light." The three favored apostles, heavy with sleep on the Mount of Transfiguration and actually sleeping in Gethsenanc, show us how the most highly favored believers may be indifferent to the great things of God and how this cry. "Awake thou that sleepest," may apply to us all.

How a Dog Told of His Needs.

Ben was our faithful, jolly old built terrier. For ten years he was a member of the family. Perhaps Ben had one bad trait; he would "fight at the drop of the hat." This necessitated keeping him on a chain most of the time, although I confess deep admiration for his ability as a scrapper. I love a fighter that fights fair, and Ben was that kind. I never saw him tackle a dog smaller than himself, but have seen him whip canines apparently large enough to eat him. When on the chain, Ben had ways of his own of notifying us of his wants. A steady succession of low barks, with a short interval between each bark, indicated that it was his mealtime. A quick, sharp bark, with long intervals between each bark, necompanied with low whining, indicated thirst. Loud, steady barking informed us that some one was coming, and spasmodic, choking barking was his way of letting us know a dog was near and that he was anxious to mix with him. At home we are all of the opinion that if the human members of the timily can reason, then so could Ben.—Forest and Stream.

SICK, WEAK, AILING WIFE

Dr. Greene's Nervura is the Remedy Sure to Make Her Well.

The man who has a sick wife has a great burden upon him, but his burden is light compared to that of his sick wife. She may not be sick abed, but she is alling all the time; she is weak, nervous, irritable, and tired out. She is sleepless nights and wakes mornings feeling tired, without energy or ambition, discouraged, dragged out, and indescribably miserable. Her head aches, her back aches, ahe cannot eat, is constipated, melancholy, and so nervous at time that she feels as if she should fly. She feels just good for nothing and is tired all the time.

How quickly will the weight of her burden of disease be lifted if she will use that greatest boon to womankind, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy! How quickly it will relieve her weakness, her nervousness, her pains and aches, her hopeiess depression of mind and heart, and how speedly it will restore her strength, renew her vitality, vigor, energy, power, and the pulsing life which means happiness for women! Dr. Greene's Nervura is indeed a blessing for weak, nervous, and despairing women, for its use means to them health, strength, hope, happiness, and life itself!

Mrs. James Roake, a well-known lady blier wilds means happiness for women if which means happiness for women if the specific strength is the second of the second of the specific strength is the second of the second of

Do not fail to try this wonderful Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. You should specially take it now, for everybody needs at this season this grandest of spring medicines. People have more confidence in it than in any and all other remedies, because it is the prescription of a famous regular physician and therefore perfectly adapted to cure, and because Dr. Greene, 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., can be consulted at any time free of charge is regard to any case, whether you call or write.

To be sure, the little Jewish newsboy to whom she was playing Lady Bountiful was laid up with a pair of smash-ed toes as a result of a contested right of way. In the encounter her automobile had come out on top in every sense of the word and had been since gallantly carrying supplies to a defeated foe whose wounds the farseeing parents did not allow to heal too rapidly.

"But of course everybody has to learn to be anything," she comforted herself, not choosing to remember that Harvey had counseled her to wait till she did learn before venturing out of the park, "and papa gave me the White-Arces value in 100 and 100 and

Says a literary man: "I used to says a literary man: "I used to think that the word 'sophomore' was made up of the Greek word signifying wise and the English word 'more'. The word was thus applicable, I thought, to the second class in a college because they were 'more wise' than their fellows in their own estimation. But it seems that the word has a purer generalogy and a meaning even less flattering to the class of collegians to whom it is applied. It was first used at the University of Cambridge, England, and in its infancy appeared in the form 'soph-mor.' It was composed of the word 'soph,' a contraction for 'sophister,' and a Greek word meaning foolish (moros).

This is an interesting and, as the statesmen say, farreaching decision. We have observed by the way, that the licensed, collared dog shows the more truculence—a truculence especially difficult to contend with on Sunday, the silk hat and frock coat day. We are also reminded of the wisdom of Mr. Oliver Herford, who says that although the bark of a dog is reputed to be worse than the bite, nevertheless, the bark is much to be preferred in an emergency.

Annual Meeting.

The W. C. T. U. held its annual meeting on Monday, March 24.
Report of the Secretary, Mrs. Preston, showed some reasons for encouragement. The removal of our L. L.
L. Superintendent, and consequent suspension of that work, was regretted.
Tender and appropriate reference was made to the departure of our late President, Mrs. Thompson.
Treasurer's report, Mrs. Jayne, gave a considerable balance on the right side, notwithstanding the fact that we have helped in the Y. Settlement at Boston, and other good work.
The Flower Mission, Mrs. Collamore, Superintendent, reported over 5,000 bonquests sent to hospitals and other charities. Much encouragement had been given by the presence of visitors on flower day, many of them bringing large contributions.
The Press Superiotendent said she had endeavored to send to the papers notices of any special work, and had kept in touch with the general work, by reporting annually as requested, to the County Superintendent.
The former officers and Superintendents were re-elected with the exception of President. Mrs. Joseph Cole dents were re-elected with the excep-tion of President. Mrs. Joseph Cole was unanimously chosen to that office. Several new members were received with much pleasure. By the kindness of Mrs. Langill and Mrs. Collamore, light refreshments were served, and the ladies passed a pleasant social half hour. PRESS SUPT.

Danger of Colds and La Grippe. Danger of Colds and La Grippe.

The greatest danger from colds and la grippe is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous malady. It will cure a cold or an attack of la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

Annual Meeting.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church held their annual meeting and supper Wednesday after-noon and evening.

Reports of officers for past year's work gave emphasis to the large amount of money raised by this Society of 50 members. About $120 was paid to current expenses, over $200 raised for furniture and carpets in the church and parsonage.

The retiring Treasurer, Mrs. A.
Bennett, who has been in office for 7 years, was presented with a sett of solid silver teaspoons and china tray.

The officers elected for the following Supper 6 to 8 each evening The officers elected for the following year are: Mary E. Fowle, President; Mrs. Lacelle Cobb, 1st Vice President; Mrs. Eleanor Daw, 2d Vice President; Mrs. Susan A. Wilson, Secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Staples, Treasurer.

About 200 partook of the supper served by committee in charge. Mrs. Walter Daw, Chairman; Mrs. True, Langill, Brooks, Fraser, French, Page, Stewart.

La Grippe Quickly Cured.

"In the winter of 1898 and 1899 I was taken down with a severe attack of what is called La Grippe," says F. L. Hewett, a prominent druggist of Winfield, Ill. "The only medicine I used was two bottles of Chambertain's Cough Remedy, It broke up the cold and stopped the coughing like magic, and I have never since been troubled with Grippe." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy can always be depended upon to break up a severe cold and ward off any threatened attack of pneumonia. It is pleasant to take, too, which makes it the most desirable and one of the most popular preparations in use for these ailments. For sale by all druggists. La Grippe Quickly Cured.

TALKING TO ONESELF.

Solloquits Are Rare Because We Fear They Mean Madaess.

Talking to oneself has this obvious advantage over any other form of oratory or gossip: One is assured of a sympathetic audience. But it has also this peculiar drawback: It is supposed to be one of the early symptoms of insanity. Wrongly so perhaps. A maddoctor might rule the habit out of his diagnosis. Nevertheless the popular belief is firmly rooted, and it is for fear of this belief doubtless that we talk to ourselves even as we dress our hair with straws so rarely.

It may be said that we never do address ourselves even as we dress our hair with straws so rarely.

It may be said that we never do address ourselves even as we dress our hair with straws so rarely.

It may be said that we never do address ourselves at any length except in the delirium of a fever. In moments of ordinary excitement of course we utter to the wind some sort of appropriate ejaculation. Delight wrings from us a cry of "Hurrahp" or "Thank heaven" even though there be none by to echo us. Similarly in any disgust we emit one of those sounds whose rather poor equivalents in print are "Ugh!" and "Tauf!" Much further than this we do not go. "Why, what an ass am II' cries Hamlet in one of his solloquies. Omitting the first word and transposing the last two, the ordinary modern man does offen solloquize to that extent. 17. "I ascend unto my Father and your God." The question is often asked, Why did our Lord not allow Mary to touch Him when just a little later the same morning He allowed the other women to hold Him by the feet and worship Him? (Matt. xxviii, b). Why not be content with the Lord's own reason, "For I am not yet ascended to My Father?" The inference is plain and easy that before the other women met Him Ihe had ascended to His Father and returned. During the forty days He evidently ascended and returned many times before the visible ascension, since which he has not yet returned, but He will (Acts i, II), and soon now.

How New York Sleeps.

New York is a city of infinite variety. There are these who have beds without sleep and those who sleep without beds. Three thousand of her winter residents slumber in the cradles of the canal barges that come each year from the canals of New York state, from the great lakes and Lake Champlain to spend the winter months moored in New York harbor. In the tenement districts a man, his wife and his four or six or eight or more children sleep in a single room, and one who goes about the city finds many a device for slumber and repose. On Washington street, on the west side, where the Turks, the Greeks, the Assyrians and the Egyptians live near neighbors to a colony of Irish, is a queer little oriental hotel on the top floor of a tenement.—Leslie's Weekly.

By the time the matter reached the courts the greater part of the book plates had been restored, the thief having settled satisfactorily with the persons to whom he had sold or given them, and, as the prisoner had repaid the expense to which the library had been put, the college consented to leave the matter of sentence with the court, which imposed a fine of $150 on one of count and put the other count on file, to be brought up again later if it should be desirable, meanwhile placing the offender under $1,000 bonds for his future appearance if he should be wanted.

FAD BECAME A MANIA.

Fempted by Harvard Book Plates.

It would seem from the experience of the Harvard college library that book plate collecting may sometimes develop into a dangerous and expensive mania. A few years ago the Harvard library found that the engraved labels which it pastes on the inside of Te covers of its books as marks of its ownership were disappearing from some of the less used volumes. The older book plates, it appears, are highly prized by collectors, and some of them are particularly valuable for their artistic merit as well as for interesting associations with early book collect.

A bequest in a will for the purchase of books on spiritualism, to be free to all, is held by the court of chancery of New Jersey in the case of Jones versus Watford (50 Atl, Rep., 180) to be a charitable gift which a court of equity will enforce.

The Chief Sense.

All the great families of living things in have a dominant sense. We lead our life by sight and make artificial lights to render darkness tolerable. But the creature whom next to ourselves we prefer, the dog, lives in a very different universe. His dominant sense, like that of many other quadrupeds, is the very one we most neglect, the sense of smell. The dog will track his master, never lifting up his head to search the distance; often with hair falling over his eyes he follows on, not troubling himself to shake it aside.

Water and the Kidneys.

As the waste in animal food in those who lead indolent lives is carried off whe lead indolent lives is carried off when they should be kept well fushed with plenty of water, for pure water is to the kidneys what fresh air is to the lungs, and taken in the early morning, it washes away the unhealthy secretions that have accumulated in the stomach during the night and stimulates it to healthy action, and then, passing on through the system till it reaches the kidneys, carries away by their aid the uric acid, gout polson and other impurities that should have no fixed habitation in the body at all and would not have if the sufferer were properly dicted for even two or three weeks each year.
